

MODULE B: THE STORIES YOU TELL

WELCOME TO MODULE B

In this module, we guide you through the step-by-step process of creating your own piece of verbatim theatre. Each step is introduced by the creative team behind, 'The Back End Of The Cow and Other Stories' - we share insights into the process we went through and set tasks and activities for the students to complete that will then culminate in a fully realised production by the end.

How it all works:

The way this module works is that we have a video that introduces each section, and a workbook with tasks and worksheets for each section. At the end of each video, we direct the students to a page in their workbook to start working on those tasks.

You can make use of this resource however you like!

Feel free to skip around between the different sections in any order - we have put them together in a way that we felt was varied, but useful, but you know your group best. If you want to skip sections entirely (for example, if you don't want to focus on marketing and promotion) you can just go straight to the next bit. We promise we won't be offended!

We would love to see what you create!

A lot of work has gone into creating this resource and we are so excited that you have decided to make use of it. Please do share with us anything that you create - we would love to see all the varied ways in which this gets used.

Send us an email via J.Blackburn2@exeter.ac.uk

Have fun, and let us know if you have any questions.